TO WIN BY 11,500.

Estimate Made By Best Posted Politicians in Frankfort.

Republicans Conceded 22,500 in the Eleventh District—Only 9,000 Claimed in First.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 2.—Inquiries from the best posted politicians from all sections of the State indicate that the Democratic ticket will win to-morrow by a safe majority of from 9,000 to 15,000. Careful, conservative estimates of the majorities by congressional districts are as follows:

	Dem.	Rep.
First District	9,000
Second District	4,000
Third District	1,500
Fourth District	2,500
Fifth District	5,000
Sixth District	5,000
Seventh District	5,500
Eighth District	1,000
Ninth District	1,000
Tenth District	1,500
Eleventh District		22,500
Total	36,000	22,500

Estimated Democratic majority 11,500.

The Democratic campaign committee places the estimates higher than 11,500, and it may go higher, but the above estimate is based on the least vote claimed by the Democrats, which makes it a safe guess to say the majority will not fall under 10,000.

Of course, Louisville is always uncertain, but the workers there are confident of a majority for the Democratic ticket, yet if that estimate is wrong and it should give Belknap a small majority Governor Beckham would still win by 7,000. The most the Republicans claim in the Eleventh district is 23,000, but it is likely to fall under that by 2,000.

FRAUD ORDER ISSUED.

Many Negroes Put up Coin Which Was Gobbled.

A fraud order has been issued by the Postoffice Department against the National Industrial Council and its secretary and treasurer, Isaac L. Walton, of Washington and Little Rock, Ark., and Smith F. Rampion, of Charleston, S. C.

The organization was incorporated to "unite free Americans socially, politically and fraternally; for the higher education of the race by lectures throughout various states; for the purchase of real estate, building of factories," etc., and it is believed that by "securing public sentiment in favor of our mothers and fathers who served as slaves we can secure pensions."

Instead of using the money collected from the negroes throughout the country, who were misled by its specious promises, the department states that the funds were entirely diverted to private uses.

An order was made rescinding that part of an order of the October meeting authorizing the poor house commissioner to purchase coal for the county officials.

The report of poor house keeper H. C. Myers was received and filed. The report of D. J. Cranor, road Commissioner, was also received and filed, and the said Cranor was directed to continue the work of repairing roads. He was further directed to expend a sum of money not to exceed $2,500.

WOMAN LIGHTHOUSE KEEPER.

Arduous Task of Mrs. Nancy Rose, Who Retires, Aged 79 Years.

For nearly half a century Mrs. Nancy Rose has had the sole responsibility of keeping the lighthouse that marks the crest of Stony Point, on the Hudson. Now, at the age of 79, she proposes to give up her arduous work and give over the watching of the beacon lights, and the responsibility of the fog bell, into younger hands.

Mrs. Rose was left a widow, with six children, when she undertook the work of the Stony Point lighthouse. It was in 1852 that Alexander Rose received the appointment of lighthouse keeper. A few years later, while carrying duties for the bell tower which the government was then constructing, he ruptured a blood vessel, and a few weeks later died. Mrs. Rose stepped into his place as lighthouse keeper, and although the work is tedious and the situation isolated and lonely, for 47 years the brave woman has kept at her post, trimmed the light and kept the fog bell ringing.

The cottage at the foot of the lighthouse, where the Rose family have lived so long, is 27 years old, but the lighthouse itself is 77, and is built on the foundation of Stony Point fort, the old walls having been filled in and long since become a terrace of grass and small shrubs. Dozens of bullets and grapeshot, rusty and soil eaten, have been found about the fort, several fine specimens of which Mrs. Rose has preserved. A flagpole marks the spot where Maj. Anthony Wayne, of revolutionary fame, is supposed to have fallen, and with him Jacob Parkinson, a great-grandfather of Mrs. Rose, was wounded.

The lighthouse lamps have to be replenished at midnight, and the fog bell machinery has to be wound up every 30 hours. In 1899 the bell was removed about an eighth of a mile away from the house and nearer the water. This made extra labor and exposure. But Mrs. Rose never failed in her duty, be the weather scorching hot or cold with winter blizzards. For her work she received a maximum salary of $500 a year. Two of Mrs. Rose's children remain with her, and a pretty cottage has been built in the locality of Stony Point, which the family will occupy, bidding good-by to the lighthouse where this faithful woman has toiled for nearly 50 years.

AUTOMATIC SUICIDE.

The Lancet Discusses an English Clergyman's Act.

The Lancet discusses an interesting problem in medico-legal psychology concerning the recent suicide of a clergyman 34 years of age. The suicide was apparently absolutely unaccountable.

The writer in the Lancet suggests that the act was automatic and not voluntary. It seems that the clergyman had a fall from a bicycle. He got home, changed his clothes, took a revolver from a drawer, loaded it, and shot himself.

The Lancet concludes that the fall induced a form of cerebral concussion which permitted the sufferer to perform complex and apparently reasoned acts, possibly quite at variance with his usual behavior, of which he would have retained no recollection had he recovered from the concussion.

The sight of the revolver, its image impinging on the retina, started the idea motor, the sequence of which ended in his loading the revolver, placing it at his head and pulling the trigger, the act being automatic and not voluntary even as a sudden impulse, the man not being in reality conscious.

The question remains why on finding the pistol he should load it and place it at his own head. In order to find a reply the psychologist asks whether anything came recently within range of the victim's mental experience to suggest the act.

It was then found that earlier in the same week there had been a report in the newspapers of a clergyman shooting himself in a manner similar to that pursued by this man.

He had not commented upon the case, but it is not probable that it had failed to fix itself up on his notice. He would naturally be impressed, being a clergyman himself.

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

Miss Mabel Higgins

Miss Mabel Higgins, who was runner-up in the recent tournament for the women's championship, and who gave Miss Bessie Anthony, the former holder of the title, a game battle, has had a very rapid rise in the golfing world. Although she has played the game only one year she has succeeded in doing what has probably any other woman devotee has ever recorded, in the short space of one golfing season he has won the championship of California, which is itself would do credit to any woman golfer in the country. There are a number of excellent woman players in California—probably as many as in any other state in the union. In addition to this is her work at Chicago, where, with one week's practice, she sent under the existing women's records by a big margin in her play in the championship tournament. In which she turned in the third best score of the qualifying round, and her decisive defeat of her opponent in the first match day round.

Miss Higgins lays claim to her reputation as a golfer on her long game, not in her short game, for she is weak when it comes to iron work. She needs a full 12, Andrew's swing and the distance she gains thereby has been unequalled in the tournament. There is hardly a woman golfer that can compete with her on the long game—at least none that has come in the Exmoor tourney. She uses a brand also to good advantage. When playing on holes when she is able to get in a brassie she generally gains a stroke on her opponent. Her short game, especially the putting, is the only bad feature of her work. She is perhaps exceptionally poor at this department of the game, but as she has been playing the game only one year here is an excuse for this.

Miss Rhona Adair, the champion woman golfer of England, who is about to visit Philadelphia, is the finest woman golfer in the United Kingdom. Since her year 1900, when she won the Irish women's championship, she has never been beaten. She won the last open championship in both the following years. Many critics of the game say that she is the most brilliant woman player in the world.

"Sam" Merles, better known among baseball fans as "Sandow" Merles, has in recent years ranked among the heavy hitters of the major leagues. For his work he was not intended to become a star of the green diamond, and his parents did little to advance his glory. His father was a humble carpenter in California, and for several years "Sam" served his apprenticeship at the carpenter's bench. From early dawn till late at night, he was with his two brothers, lashed and hammered. The day that "Sam" was 21 years old he looked Papa Merles in the eye and handed him his tool kit.

"I've played long enough," said he, "Now I'll play awhile." Unknown to Papa the husky carpenter had made a reputation as a catcher, without mask, gloves or protector, and when "Buck" Albright saw him perform he took "Sandow" aside and offered him $20 a month to sign with a semi-professional team called the Allens. Thirty dollars was a fortune then to "Sam" and he went along to Lincoln, Neb., belonging to the Western association. Merles played there long enough, as he puts it, "to get a sandwich" for his ambitions were already aroused and when he returned to "Frisco and knocked a liner over the old Haight street fence, the longest hit ever registered on the "Frisco grounds, managers came looking for him.

After playing in half a dozen western league clubs during 1894 and 1895 he went to St. Paul as an outfielder, where he worked in 1896, breaking into the National league in Philadelphia at the end of that season.

The year 1897 found him in Columbus, O., but the five succeeding years he spent in Chicago, three with the Nationals and two with Comiskey's White Sox. He worked out his contract there and last August John McGraw signed him for the Giants, this being his first year in their company.

The late Pierre Lorillard is attributed the following epigram, which certainly has more than a modicum of truth in it: In this world if you let your emotions you will grow tired of everything, of men and women, of yachts and dinners, of politics and money making, but when the fascination of the racetrack gets into the blood it never leaves. It is the greatest sport and the poorest business ever devised by man."

Roger Connor, who holds the record for the longest hit ever made on the Polo grounds, made when he was first baseman of the old New York Giants, has announced his retirement from the game at the sale of the old (Conn.) league baseball team, of which he has been owner and manager. He has played ball 25 consecutive seasons.

Marlin Duffy, of Chicago, had little trouble in disposing of "Philadelphia" Tommy Ryan in eight rounds at Kansas City the other night. Duffy had all the better of the bout while it lasted, hitting Ryan whenever he pleased.

FREE RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

"The Henderson Route"—Always First.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 29, 1905.—The traveling public will be pleased to learn of the latest innovation in the way of comfort in travel for its patrons which is now being offered by that most popular railroad, The Henderson Route, which road has been rightly termed the "Traveler's Official Route."

It has just been announced from the general office of the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis railway that they now have in service on their night trains between Louisville and St. Louis, Free reclining Chair Cars, which have just been received from the shops and are a revelation in the car builder's art.

The cars are strictly up to date, first class "palaces of travel" on wheels, and which are promised the public by the Henderson Route.

Among other advantages offered in these highly finished cars, a few of the most important points are mentioned:

They are solidly restful and furnished with sixty-four reclining chairs, which are upholstered in beautiful green plush, in addition to smoking and toilet rooms being finished throughout in leather. They are also fitted up with triple track, which feature will do away with the jerk, jar or strain incident to travel in the ordinary railway coach, and insure a smooth, comfortable ride. This should prove more than a popular feature in train service to the traveling public, and we can only suggest that in traveling you get the Henderson Route habit.

BRIGHAM YOUNG.

When He Was an Expert Carpenter at Port Byron in 1830.
About the year 1830 Brigham Young and family settled in Port Byron, says the Rochester Post-Express. It was then known as Bucksville, and boasted of 100 inhabitants. There was no canal or railroad in those days, and the settlers had to hew down trees in order to make a clearing in which to build a house. During the first few years of Young's stay he made his home with Squire Pine, who lived on the corner of Pine and South streets. The Pine house is now about 100 years old. It is now owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. James D. Dixon.

Brigham Young was a carpenter, and old residents of Port Byron say that he was an expert at his trade, but work was scarce, and he was always hard up. He was a long time before he saved money enough to buy lumber to build his own house. It was his intention to build himself a fine house, but it turned out to be a very ordinary frame structure. It was built soon after the Erie canal was put through, and was located near the heel path side of the canal. The Young house has long since been moved. A part of the original structure now stands back of the Newkirk lively stables, and is unoccupied.

Brigham Young's family comprised his wife and one son, Brigham, Jr., who died recently at Salt Lake City. Young at that time was a firm believer in Mormonism. He left Port Byron, or Bucksville, in 1850, and went to Seneca Falls. From there he went to Utah and subsequently became famous as the leader of the Mormons. In after years, when he was famous, one of his old acquaintances wrote to him and asked him if he was the Brigham Young of Port Byron, and if he were could he pay Squire Pine for a large board bill. Squire Pine was then an old man and in poor circumstances. In a short time Squire Pine received a letter from Young, and inclosed was the money in full for his board, with interest. Young was then a rich man, and said he was very glad to pay up his old debts.

Expenditures for Some 18th Century Performances in London.

In these days of extravagant theatrical expenditures, it is interesting to study the cost of performances given years ago. An industrious delver has found the record of some eighteenth century performances that are in marked contrast to the amounts spent to-day.

A performance of "Hamel" given in September, 1735, in London, cost $300, and the expenses of the night were $85. The orchestra cost $17.50, the advertisements in a newspaper four dollars, and for the services of the two soldiers who stood at either side of the proscenium arch to keep order the sum of $3.50 was paid. The candles that illuminated the theater cost $15.

Sometimes in those economical days there were expenditures unknown now. When the prince and princess of Wales, for instance, attended a performance of "Jane Shore," the manager was compelled to tip all the flunkies that came in the royal retinue, and the cost of that was $50.

Although some elaborate pantomimes were produced in those days, the scene painters received small salaries. The best known of these, an Italian imported to London on account of his skill in constructing scenery, was the highest paid of the scene painters. He was able to get only $25 a week.

Some of the expenditures for costumes seemed extravagant to that age, although the prices would be rather moderate now. Much emphasis was laid on the cost of a gown and cape made for a popular actor of the day for which $120 was paid. A crown for King Lear, on the other hand, cost only $1.75, while for $125 the costumes for all the dancers in the opera of "Dioceletian" were obtained.

In those days $700 was looked upon as an uncommonly good salary. Salaries were low, for the highest recorded is $80 a week. That was much above the average, which was about $35 for the principal actors.

The tea is served in a beautiful glade in his grounds, and there is music and dancing, while the patriarchal-looking host goes around among his guests seeing that they are having plenty of refreshment and enjoyment.

A child of Mrs. Geo. T. Benson, when getting his usual Saturday night bath, stepped back against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house, she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Kellar, Va. DENTISTS FOR HORSES.

How Operation of Scraping and Filing Molar Is Performed.

It is only within the last three years that the dentist has come to give the horse serious attention. As yet there are but one or two thoroughly qualified horse dentists in New York city, and they are kept surprisingly busy the year round, says the New York Times.

It is interesting to watch an operation in equine dentistry. A reporter visited the other day a large stable containing a string of valuable horses owned by a wealthy New Yorker. One of the animals, a polo pony, was suffering from a bad molar, and it was about to be operated on in the white canvas box stall and a table on which were a glittering array of dental instruments, was placed in a convenient position by two grooms. The dentist, a stockily built man, appeared in a thin white canvas coat. He picked up one of the instruments. It had an ivory handle and four small bars of nickel, working on a ratchet and crossing one another so as to form a hollow square that could be made large or small by the turning of a screw.

This instrument the dentist called a speculum. Setting it to the proper size, he slipped it gently into the animal's mouth, which was kept partly open meanwhile by the efforts of a groom, until the instrument fitted upon the back teeth and thus opened her mouth as wide as it was possible.

The groom now took hold of the handle of the speculum with one hand and the molar's tongue with the other, enabling the dentist to get a full view of the damaged tooth. After examining it carefully he found that a splinter would have to come off. Taking up a cutter, a scissor-shaped instrument two feet long, and with saw-like edges, he applied it to the tooth and by a quick movement snapped off the offending splinter.

Among the display of nickel plated dental tools on the table was an electric molar buzz saw. To one of its wires the dentist fixed a diminutive drill. Instantly there was a buzz upon the end of the drill as it began to revolve by the current's force, with the rapidity of a circular saw. Quickly the dentist applied the drill to the damaged molar, and with a buzzing, grinding sound it holed its way through the enamel.

After removing the drill the dentist took up a syringe, through which hot air was blown into the tooth, thoroughly cleansing it. A small piece of gold was then placed in the cavity by a forceps. This malleable metal the surgeon pounded tightly into the socket, adding more and more of the gold as he hammered and molded it, until finally the tooth had regained its original size and shape.

The operation lasted barely an hour. The speculum was removed by the groom and the mare was given a bucket of water, which it drank up greedily, and afterward ate a hearty meal. The animal suffered no pain. Throughout the operation it remained perfectly still; it seemed to know that something was being done for its benefit.

The mare had had the tooth broken accidentally in the field by a blow from a polo club. The splinter that remained cut her mouth and the pain prevented her from eating.

Aluminum and amalgam as well as gold are used in the filling and crowning of horses' teeth. The fee charged varies anywhere from $5 to $125. Where gold is used it is, of course, the most expensive item in the operation. For the back tooth of an equine measures an inch broad and three inches long, and it requires therefore a large quantity of valuable metal to fill up these molars.

Not Composing Now.

When he was in America Mr. W. S. Gilbert was one evening at a fashionable function, given by a lady of the "new rich" order, who posed as a patron of music, but who had not had time to educate herself. She was foolish enough to attempt to "show off" before the English celebrity. "And what is Bach?" "Bach?" she called it "doing now?" she said; "is he composing anything?" "No, madam," immediately replied Mr. Gilbert, without a ghost of a smile. "No, madam; Bach is just now decomposing!"

A SIMPLE QUESTION.

Hopkinsville People are Requested to Honestly Answer This.

Is not the word of a representative citizen of Hopkinsville more convincing than the dubital utterances of people living everywhere else in the Union? Read this:

J. W. Tunks, of 302 West Seventh St., who is employed at M. C. Forbes Planing Mill says: "The condition of my health was such as to cause me a great deal of worry about my future. I had an almost constant aching across the small of my back and the kidney secretions were highly colored, excessive and irregular, in fact, the disorder was so pronounced that I had been obliged to discontinue my work. I also suffered at this time with indigestion which caused me a great deal of distress. At one time I was scarcely able to do any work at all for nearly a year. I doctored and tried various remedies but nothing did me any permanent good until I used Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured at Thomas & Trahern's drug store. I had taken them only a few days when I noticed a change for the better and by time I had finished the box I found that they had brought about so decided an improvement in my condition as to convince me of their real worth, and I am more than thankful for the relief that I have received." We are authorized to announce
WALTER S. ELGIN
as the independent candidate for Councilman from the First Ward. Election Nov. 3, 1903.

Miss Enid Vandell, the Louisville sculptress, has gone to Paris to open a studio for a year.

Owensboro will vote today on a question of cattle running at large. The cattle referred to are the bovine variety.

It is easier to get married in Louisville than it is to stay married. Judge Toney granted eleven divorces in one day last week.

Chairman Hager has issued an address at the close of the campaign, claiming the State by 20,000 majority. The Republicans give out no figures, but claim the State.

Senator Gorman claims that Maryland will go Democratic by 15,000 majority and that both branches of the Legislature will be Democratic.

The Kentuckian recommends a favorable vote on the Constitutional Amendment. There are so many bad features in the constitution that we ought not to lose any opportunity to amend it.

John Brasher's hand wagon campaign in Hopkins county has stirred the Democrats up until they are fighting to-day with enthusiasm at a white heat. Hopkins went Republican last year, but there will be no flies in it this time.

Anything short of a Democratic victory in New York City today will be a sore disappointment to the Democrats. The election of McClellan for Mayor is confidently claimed, but the betting indicates a close and doubtful contest.

John Alexander Dowie is out in a denial that John Murray Dowie, of Essex, Iowa, is his father. The latter has submitted such proof that the conclusion is irresistible that the "prophet" has flirted with the truth.

The fatalities of the football season have opened with a vengeance this season. Sixteen persons were killed and 50 injured Saturday by the wrecking of a Big Four train with an excursion party on route to see football game. Several players were killed or injured.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

All Stuffed Up

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning. Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat.

No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, pollutes the breath, deranges the stomach and affects the appetite.

To cure catarrh, treatment must be constitutional—alterative and tonic.

"I was afflicted with catarrh. I took medicines of different kinds, giving such a fair trial; but gradually grew worse until I could hardly hear, taste or smell. I then resorted to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after taking five bottles I was cured and have had no return of the disease since." EUGENE FORBES, Lebanon, Kan.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Cures catarrh; it soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane and builds up the whole system.

GOOD MAN DEAD.

Mr. Robt. H. McGaughey Passes Away Near Newstead.

Ripe in Years He Was One of the County's Best Men.

Mr. Robert H. McGaughey, of Newstead, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed citizens of the Newstead vicinity, died Sunday night Nov. 1st, of bronchial pneumonia. Mr. McGaughey was a son of Col. Arthur McGaughey and was born in Hart county, Kentucky, Jan. 26, 1826, and the same year his parents moved to this county when he was but three months old. He was educated at Transylvania University, Lexington, graduating in honors in 1846.

Mr. McGaughey was married Sept. 9, 1868, to Mrs. Mary J. Green, (who was a Miss Crumpler) of Davidson county, Tenn.

He was a member of the Presbyterian church. He leaves no family, except his widow.

The funeral services will be held at the family residence at two o'clock this afternoon by Rev. J. C. Tate, of Clarksville, pastor of his church. The burial will take place at the family burial ground near by.

Mr. McGaughey was one of the county's best citizens from every standpoint. His death will be sincerely lamented by a large number of friends who esteemed him for his many noble traits of character.

He was a brother of Esq. John W. McGaughey and an uncle of Mr. Arthur McGaughey Henry, prominent citizen of Newstead. He was also an uncle of Mr. H. D. Wallace and Dr. H. H. Wallace, of this city.

Radium, the new element, the remarkable facts connected with its discovery and its wonderful possibilities in the sciences and the arts, forms the subject of a comprehensive article in the November Review of Reviews, by Dr. George F. The Democrats of Christian county are well organized and confident of the result of to-day's election. They fully expect to be able to reduce the Republican vote from the usual majority of 1,200. A bright day will bring out a strong vote in the country precincts and the total vote in the county may reach 8,000.

Hunter seems to be up against the real thing in his race for Congress. The lower court has made the injunction permanent that restrained the clerk from putting his name on the ballots for the special election next Tuesday. Judge Settle heard the appeal last night in Louisville.

Part Extending From Nashville to This City Secured By I. C.

The Southern To Get The Eastern Branch Plans For Double Tracking.

All of the higher officials of the Tennessee Central railroad and Messrs. Estell McHenry and J. M. Greely, two St. Louis capitalists, were out Friday on special train making an inspection of the line between here and Clarksville, says the Nashville Banner, of Saturday afternoon.

One of the most reliable reports that has yet been heard was given a Banner reporter Friday afternoon. A gentleman who has done considerable work for the Tennessee Central stated that he knew it to be a fact that the Tennessee Central has been sold. He was familiar with the details of the deal and gave the source of his information but with the proviso that it was not to be used, as it would cost somebody their positions.

He says he has positive information that that part of the road from here to Hopkinsville has been sold to the Illinois Central and the Southern has bought the line from here to Harrison. He does not know or was not told, what the Southern is to pay for the eastern branch of the line, but the Illinois Central is to pay $67,000 a mile for the road from here to Hopkinsville. This payment includes the bonds at the rate of $25,000 a mile and really means $42,000 a mile straight for the property. It is well known that the Tennessee Central has the right to bond its road at the rate of $25,000 and the Illinois Central is to take care of that bond issue, and it is included in the $67,000 that it pays.

The Illinois Central gets the property from here to Hopkinsville absolutely, including the new bridge across the Cumberland river. It also gets control of the terminal facilities of the road, although not their exclusive use. Under the contract the Tennessee Central turned the property over the day the first train crosses the bridge, but the Tennessee Central is to keep the property up one year from that date.

He further stated in this connection that the Illinois Central would not stop in Nashville, but that plans were being made for going on through to Chattanooga. The McMinnville, Woodbury and Nashville railroad, he said, was a part of the Illinois Central plan. This road as surveyed, would have a maximum grade of only 1 1/2 per cent, and would make one of the best pieces of railroad in the South.

It would be as advantageous as a steam road, as it would be an electric road, opening up practically a new country.

In speaking of the sale of the Tennessee Central he stated that the line had been built all the way to Hopkinsville, with a view to double-tracking it is the future. Cuts and fills have been made while not necessary, and the whole line is in condition for throwing it into a double track.

ASYLUM PATIENT

Shot From a Tree By a Squirrel Hunter.

Coroner's Inquest Renders Verdict of Accidental Killing.

Joe Benton, an aged patient in the Western Asylum, was shot and killed by John W. Long, an old man living near the asylum.

Benton was up in a hickory nut tree and Long was in the woods hunting squirrels and shot him through mistake.

At the coroner's inquest Mr. Long stated that he was squirrel hunting and saw the bushes shaking on the tree and shot where he saw them shaking and did not see anyone until he heard the man make a noise and heard him fall to the ground. Another patient was sitting under the tree and got up after the shooting. Witness stated that he was 79 years old and cannot see out of one eye.

The jury rendered a verdict to the effect that the shooting was accidental and exonerated Long from blame in the matter.

Benton had been in the asylum for nearly fifty years, credited to Lincoln county. He was dead when picked up, being killed while he was shot which struck him in the chest or by the fall from the tree. Long gave himself up.

THE MEDICINE OF DISCORD.

How a Statesman Found Solace for His Last Days.

A great statesman, one who had all but touched the presidency, lay dying within the walls of an old brick mansion on the eastern side of the square where I had elected to sit.

It was my first afternoon in the square when a hand organ began to grind forth its turgid strains before the brick house. I looked and listened, expecting with each moment that some one would issue from the house of doom and drive the drummer away. Instead, says Everybody's Magazine, a bright black man, evidently a butler, came and stood on the porch.

An hour went by before the repertory was exhausted; then the black man gave the organ man a dollar, and the music and the man went quietly on their ways. "I should think it would disturb your master," I said to the black guardian of the porch.

"He likes it," he replied. "The organ comes by his orders. The doctor says it does him more good than the medicine."

For a week I went and sat on the bench and heard the organ grind. The programme never varied; the concert lasted the hour; then came the dollar and the music ceased.

For a full week I attended these concerts in the square. Then came a day when the hand organ did not appear. I looked at my watch; I was surprised, the concert was ten minutes overdue! What should delay him? Surely that easy dollar had his charms.

Then as though in answer to my question, my eye caught a black knutter at the door. It was a knot of crape. The ear that had listened was dulled; the audience had departed. Blaine, secretary of state, was dead.

MADE CHIEF OF MASONS.

James D. Richardson Holds Highest Position in the Order.

Washington, Oct. 29.—James D. Richardson, erstwhile Democratic leader in the house of representatives, is a king of most Masons. By his election as provincial grand master of the royal order of Scotland, of America, a day or two ago he was elevated to the highest Masonic position in the world and is the ranking man in every organization with which Masons are connected. The position will be his as long as he lives and besides sitting on the throne not greatly unlike that of a king or emperor he will receive a salary of $3,000 per annum and have all his railroad and other expenses paid whenever he turns his hand to Masonic business.

In addition to that he may live in a palatial residence free and have servants furnished him by the members of the organization over which he presides. As commander of the Southern jurisdiction, another office he holds, he has control over all Masonic organizations in all states except those in the east and north. Mr. Richardson also controls Masons in Hawaii, China, Japan, the Philippines, Guam, Cuba, Porto Rico, and as fast as the United States can procure new possessions his power will extend. Only two other men have attained the position of provincial grand-master, the late Gen. Albert Pike and Josiah Drummond, of Maine.

The Review of Reviews.

The Reviews of Reviews is keeping up its reputation as the best interpreter of the news of the day among our monthly journals. The November number deals with the postal investigation, the fall elections, the recent exposure of "high finance" in trust organization, the Panama Canal situation, the award of the Alaska boundary, the protectionists movement in England, and the issue in the far East between Russia and Japan. Contributed articles describe "Men and Issues of the New York City Campaign," just closing; "The Nation's Print Shop and Its Methods,"—including a view of the famous "Miller case" and its outcome and the whole question of the status of labor unions in the Government Printing Office; "The Fort Riley Massacres," which began on October 15; "The New Springfield Rifle and the Improvement in Small Arms;" "Galveston's Great Sea Wall;" and "The Rebirth of the Japanese Language and Literature,"—a history of the movement for the adoption of the Roman character in writing and printing, the place of the Chinese systems of picture-writing. Dr. George F. Kuus writes an authoritative account of the discovery of radium, and the uses and properties of that wonderful element. In this number also appears the defense of Russia's policy in Finland, which was addressed last month by Minister de Plevne to Mr. W. T. Stead. Altogether a typically "live" number.

QUANT REIC OF FRANKLIN.

Punch Strainer Made of First Piece of Silver He Earned.

The first piece of silver that Benjamin Franklin ever earned reposes in the rooms of the Historical society of Delaware, in the shape of a quaint punch strainer, and to it is attached an interesting bit of history connected with the early days of the great philosopher.

When working as a lad in Boston Franklin wrote ballads on current events and sold the copies printed by himself on the streets. It is probable that the silver coin now in the shape of a strainer was earned in this way. He worked with another poor printer's apprentice named James Parker, and as both were ambitious and studious they became great friends.

To both of them came success, but in differing measure. Of Franklin the whole world was to hear, and Mr. Parker became one of the first American printers, and later editor of "The Post Boy" published in New York. Working side by side, possibly sharing the same lodgings, it was natural that they should, for "a mascot," as we now say, exchange the first silver coin that each earned. So Franklin had Parker's coin and Parker had Franklin's, which he kept for a souvenir and a nest egg. When he was able to do so Mr. Parker had it made into a punch strainer. This he gave to his daughter, Jane Ballaroux Parker, a charming and accomplished woman, who married Gunning Bedford, of Delaware.

Belonging to a prominent family, Gunning Bedford was a man of influence and a staunch patriot. At Princeton college, then called Nassau hall, he was a good friend of James Madison, afterward president of the United States. Gunning Bedford soon rose to be a judge and then attorney general of the state of Delaware.

With his brilliant wife he entertained many distinguished people at their country estate, Lombardy, and at their city home in Wilmington.

In time the valued little punch strainer passed to their daughter, Miss Henrietta Jane Bedford, who lived to a great age. When she died in 1871 she presented the punch strainer, and the pistols which Washington had given her father when he sent him on a dangerous and important secret mission to Trenton, to the Historical society of Delaware.

IN A CHINESE SCHOOL.

How the Young Pigtails Learn to Read and Write.

To learn to read and write in China means about as much work for the youngster who undertakes it as mastering five or six languages, such as English, French and German. To begin with, the Chinese language has no alphabet. Every character used stands for a word. There is not even any way of telling the sound of a word except by hearing it pronounced by the teacher. To learn to read means that the small student must be able to understand thousands of these different characters at sight, and pronounce them according to the local dialect.

As a rule a Chinese school is not divided into classes. Each scholar has his separate lesson, consisting of a number of lines to be learned "by heart." He has to study aloud, and in consequence, the noise in a Chinese schoolroom would drive the average American teacher frantic. At first the pupil does not understand any of the words he learns by rote. The meanings are all explained to him later on. This is the kind of school that in China keeps seven days in the week, with very few holidays throughout the year.

Novel Reunion.

There was a touching reunion the other day at Frick's Locks, Pennsylvania. The venerable schoolmaster rang the bell of the old schoolhouse, when the trooped in, not the children of the village, but 62 middle-aged men and women, former scholars. All the lessons were gone through, and then the class adjourned to the playground and romped through the old games.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Hung Jury in Damage Suit Against Railroad.

Grant Murder Case Continued Two Days—Several Civil Matters Disposed of.

Civil cases have been claiming the attention of the court during the past several days. The suit of Annie Tandy, col., against the L. & N. railroad company for $1,000 damages was tried Friday. The jury after deliberating half an hour failed to agree and were discharged. The case was then continued until the next term of court.

The suit of Hanna Anglin, col., against the L. & N. for $500 was tried Saturday, the jury awarding plaintiff $75 damages. The Anglin woman claimed to have purchased a ticket at Pembroke to Cedar Hill, Tenn., and was put off a mile beyond Adams, four miles short of her destination. She also sued for a similar amount, as next best friend of Alvis Adams, col., a minor who was with her on the occasion of her trip and who was also put off at the same time. The latter case goes over to the next term.

Spotwood Dandridge was granted an absolute divorce from Matilda Dandridge. A divorce was also granted in the case of Georgia West against Duak West.

C. R. Clark was examined by Circuit Clerk Starling in the presence and under the supervision of Judge Phelps in regard to his qualifications for the office of circuit court clerk of Christian county. Mr. Clark passed a creditable examination, showing a knowledge of the duties to be performed by a circuit clerk, and was awarded a certificate setting forth the fact.

The case of the Commonwealth against James Grant, charged with the murder of Harrison Hamby, was called yesterday and continued until tomorrow (Wednesday) at 9 o'clock.

Frank Putnam, in the same number writes "The Year With the Labor Unions, a strong and timely paper in which the unions are urged to get rid of their stupid and criminal leaders of the Sam Parks stripe, and warned against trying to monopolize public as well as private employment. Dallas Rose Sharp tells a funny possum story. Joseph Howe Dickson explains why Canada doesn't wish to be annexed. Arthur McIlroy sketches the career of Governor Cummins of Iowa, the leader of the Western Republicans' movement for tariff reform. Frank B. Tracy deals with Boston and the Honourables, considering the recent visit of the Honourable Artillery company of London. Five full-page pictures illustrate this article. The Stage and Book chat by George T. Richardson and Kate Sanborn is fresh and entertaining and freely illustrated. Affairs at Washington deals with the opening of the extra session and carries many fine portraits of men and women of importance in the national capital. FAKE PRESCRIPTION.

Rheumatic Patient Runs Against "Dead Beat" Doctor.

Lady With "All Smiles" Also Gets in Her Work On "Hatter of Board."

(Written by Dick Thacker, Lafayette, Ky.)

EDITOR KENTUCKIAN:

As my letter describing my trip to Hot Springs escaped the waste basket, I will try and write you a few things that happened while I was in the city.

Before leaving home my friends that had previously made a trip to that health resort came around to warn me of the swindlers that Hot Springs is always alive with. I did not fear the swindlers at all. I was going to keep away from that class of people and let them prey upon the ones that never heard of them.

On account of a wash-out in the railroad, I was belated about seven hours and did not get in the town until late Saturday night. I soon found a hotel, got a bed and in a little while my trip to Hot Springs had all been forgotten. I slept until next morning, at which time I was aroused by a noise at the door. As I was a little slow in getting out of bed a gentleman wearing a gold hat, long-tailed coat, with a high headed cane in his hand, managed to get the door open. He stepped in, shook hands with me and told me he was from Kentucky before I could get my clothes on. I asked him to take a seat, but he said that he was in quite a hurry and only had a few minutes to be with me at that time. He began abusing the doctors and hotel keepers, and told me to keep both eyes open whenever I was dealing with either. I told the gent that I was not afraid of the people of Hot Springs, for I got a history of them before leaving home, and if they "beat" me they would have to get up before day. He then said that he was a physician and asked if I was going to employ any one to look after my case. I said no. He said that I would have to be examined before beginning the baths, that at every bath house they would require a prescription of me from a physician, and if I didn't care, while he was around he would execute the job for me.

As I had been told that I would have to be examined, and as my friend was a physician, I gave him the job with the expectation of getting it at half price and maybe for nothing. In about two minutes the examination was completed and the prescription written. His charges were five dollars. I paid the bill, he bade me farewell, and that was the last I saw of him. But when I presented my prescription, to the bath-house keeper we could not find any name to it, therefore I had to be examined again.

I saw then that I had been "beat," but that would be the last time they would catch me. So, after taking my bath, I went back to the hotel where I had spent the night before. I was met at the door by a lady with a smile all over her face. She had heard I was from Kentucky and as that was her old home she invited me in her room. She wanted to talk with me a little. I went in, took a seat and tried to get up a conversation with the old lady, but could not get her to say much about Kentucky.

As soon as she got a chance she approached me with the subject of boarding with her. I told the old lady if she would put the board to me cheap enough I would stay with her a while anyway. She priced her board at eight dollars per week, but I thought this to be a little too much, so I told her I could do better somewhere else. She argued with me a while, but finally said as I seemed like a neighbor and would promise to keep it from her other boarders she would take me at five dollars per week. As this was such a big cut I did not argue with her any more, but told the old lady I would stay with her. Fearing she might raise my board, in the near future, I gave her a twenty dollar bill and told her to give me a receipt for four weeks lodging. She gave me a receipt and in a few minutes I was invited in the office. As I had struck such a "good thing" regardless of my promise I was anxious that some one should know about this besides myself. As soon as I got a chance I asked one of the boys what his board was costing him. He informed me that he was paying three and a half per week. I did not say any more about my board price, but kept my promise. I staid there my four weeks out and did not let the old lady's boarders find out what my board was costing me.

I was caught in several traps of this kind and I decided while I was spending what little I had, I would try and learn something too. I made it a rule, whenever I was talking to anyone, to try to find out where he was from and all I could about his state and I found people from ever state in the Union except Arkansas. It seems strange to think that a town as large as Hot Springs should be made up of people from other states, but it is a fact you can't find a man in it that will acknowledge he was raised in Arkansas.

I staid in the town about three months and when I got away I had nothing left except one suit of clothes and the rheumatism.

Quick Arrest.

EVERY WOMAN!

Housekeepers, wives, mothers, every woman who has the care of a family or household, has at one time or another spells of backache, nervous weakness, sick headache and disorders in the digestion, caused as a rule by domestic worry, overwork, irregular meals or habitual constipation. To all women who suffer in this way, we say:

TAKE
Prickly Ash Bitters
.... IT CURES.

It performs a marvelous transformation. The tired, weak, despondent, pale and bloodless victim is soon a strong, bright, happy woman, with rosy cheeks and cheerful spirits.

Prickly Ash Bitters is not a disagreeable, harsh-acting medicine as the name might indicate. It is pleasant to the taste, mild yet powerful in its cleansing and regulating influence in the vital organs.

Many Seeking Homes Where Lands
Are Cheap and Climate is Mild

Low Rates for Homeseekers And Colonists Twice a Month.

Many farmers in the Northern and Eastern states are seeking their high priced lands and locating in the Southwest—in Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas. Many who have been unable to own their homes in the older country are buying land at the low prices prevailing in the new country—$5, $10, $15 per acre and up. This land is mostly cut over timber lands, some of them possessing a deep rich soil producing corn, wheat, oats, clover, cotton, fruits, and vegetables. Well improved farms are scattered throughout this country. Many places with small clearings and some improvements can be bought very cheap. Our descriptive literature gives a fairly good idea of this country. It tells about the soil, crops, climate, people, schools and churches, water and health. It contains maps showing location of counties, towns, railways and streams, and gives names and addresses of real estate dealers in the towns.

Reduced rates for homeseekers and colonists are in effect the first and third Tuesdays of each month by way of St. Louis, Cairo or Memphis and the Cotton Belt Route. Let us send you our literature and quote your rates.

Address: W. C. PEELER, Dist. Pass. Agt., Memphis, Tenn. or E. W. LAURENCE, Gen. Pass. & Tkt. Agt., St. Louis.

POSITIONS Guaranteed under a second, or give notice. Our facilities, our security, and the probability of our graduates, are strongly endorsed by business men from Maine to California. Our 150-page catalogue will contain all. Send for it. Address: Druggists' College at either place.

ENCROACHING VALLEYS.

Water the Chief Agency in Earth Sculpture—The Alpine Country.

Nature is not a teacher of alonism. The struggle for existence holds even with things inorganic. Rivers may be guilty of removing a neighbor's landmark, and one valley sometimes annexes the territory of another. Examples of this can be found, though they must be looked for, even in Great Britain, says the London Standard. But they are more conspicuous in the Alps. It all comes from the way in which valleys are made. Though their general direction may often have been determined by fracture in the earth's crust, most geologists now believe that the actual excavating has been done, whether in lowland or mountain regions, by rain and rivers, aided by changes of temperatures. Some look upon glaciers also as potent agents in the earth's sculpture, but this notion has found few defenders among those who can speak of the mountains from much personal experience. In walking along a shore as the tide is receding, we can watch the water, as it drains seaward from the drying sand, work out a series of models of river systems of the simpler type. Any one of them resembles in plan a leafless tree, such as a young lime, the tributaries being the branches and the main stream the trunk. As land is rising from the sea in a long flattened dome, this is no sooner out of reach of the planing action of the waves than it is taken in hand by the water from the sky; the rain runs down from the crest, and begins to trace out valleys on either side, in the same way as the water from the sand. The process is, as a rule, less simple when a great mountain chain is being formed by puckering of the earth's crust, for the central fold which determines the original watershed is often quickly followed by subsidiary folds on either side. By these the long valleys parallel with the crest of a chain are often originated, and they act as the Upper Rhine does in catching the drainage from the Pennine range. But the effects, both direct and indirect, of these secondary folds is a complicated story, over which we must not now linger.

Very long ago—probably soon after the sands in the Bourne mouth cliffs had been deposited—the Alps began to rise above the sea. The Pennine range, so far as it lies on Swiss territory, and its continuation eastward within the same limit, may mark the original watershed, though whatever their first rose above the sea has long disappeared, for since then some thousands of feet of sedimentary strata have been stripped away from the crystalline masses which now form the familiar peaks. But the existing valleys have been cut deep into the mountain mass of streams which have an ancestral connection with those still leaping and swirling along the bottom of the gorges. Each of them has been engaged, for not a few millions, in deepening its bed; while endless runlets have been trimming up the slopes on either side, and those which first gave birth to the river have been at work cutting back the head of the main glen nearer and nearer towards the line of the watershed. Here aggressive habits begin to declare themselves. If the two streams engaged in valley making but in opposite directions, are equally strong, the steep slopes which are their place of birth, other circumstances being alike, approach at equal rates, and on meeting converge their watershed into a sharp ridge, like the rocky "divide" of many less frequented Alpine passes. Other passes, however, especially the lower ones, have been carried, for obvious reasons, the great Alpine roads have been carried, are without any sharp ascent to or narrow crest at the summit, and instead of it we find a long and nearly level trough, with mountains rising on either hand.

Curious Fact About Snow.

A curious fact has been noted by Arctic travelers—snow, when at a very low temperature, absorbs moisture and dries garments.

ROBES DE LUXE.

Advancing Civilization Brings Keener Regard for Good Dress.

Advancing civilization brings with it a keener appreciation of the creature comforts, a nicer regard for the little refinements of dress and manner of living, says the Haberdasher. A batless race is generally a decadent race, for cleanliness, begets self-respect, self-respect breeds ambition, and ambition is the driving wheel that sends a nation spinning onward toward the Utopian goal. We as a nation have left the batless and loeb cabin age behind us as a child sheds its swaddling clothes. We have learned that comfort in living is made up of little things and in our appreciation of those little things and our ability to make them subservient to our uses we yield to no other nation, however proud its pedigree. It used to be the enjoyment of certain luxuries was confined to the wealthy class, but to-day even the middle classes and, to some extent, those low in the social scale, share in this enjoyment. The average American with only a moderate income lives in a style that makes the visiting foreigner sit bolt upright and rub his eyes. Things that he regarded as concomitants of luxurious living the Americans regard as every day comforts that he would no more dispense with than the telephone on his office desk, the type-writing machine beside it, or the dozen and one devices which enable him to transact business conveniently and expeditiously.

This growing tendency toward more luxurious living has been noted with gratification by the makers of house coats, smoking jackets, breakfast coats, shaving suits, lounging robes, bath gowns or by whatever name one may choose to describe these home garments, and the most costly and sumptuous fabrics, the finest linings and trimmings, and the highest degree of artistic handwork are employed in their production. The prices for the best imported garments range from $15 upward into the hundreds and, curiously enough, the cost seems to be in no wise prohibitory. More are sold to-day than ever before and the workmanship is of the carefullest. It is necessarily slow and consequently their output is limited. The most exclusive shops take these goods and sell them the year round, though, of course, the demand is briskest toward holiday time, when they make truly royal gifts.

In smoking jackets all silk must be in much favor. The garments are silk lined, trimmed with silk cord and come in many showy designs, including the rich Persians. They retail at $40 apiece. Silk and worsted jackets with plain stitched edge, satin lined and silk faced shawl collar sell for $30. For velvet jackets, or "breakfast coats," as they are also designated, silk lined and with a tuxedo collar, $25 is asked. Broadcloth jackets of wine color, also seal brown, myrtle, green and navy blue, with satin binding, from $15 upward. English suiting cloth jackets, silk cord trimmed and frogged, fetch from $12 upward.

Both robes come in imported camel's hair cloth with black silk velvet facing on collar, cuffs and pockets, all well trimmed and with silk frogs and silk girdles. These retail at $35. Silk matelasse and broadened dressing gowns are satin lined and have silk cord, silk frogs and silk girdles. They cost $60 apiece.

One would naturally fancy that the sales of such costly garments would be sporadic, but while the demand comes mainly from shops with an excellent clientele, quite a few are sold in the large department stores throughout the country and, odd to relate, to some department stores that haven't a reputation for handling high-class goods.

A Camel's Speed.

Seven miles an hour is the camel's utmost speed; nor can it maintain that rate of speed over two hours. Its usual rate of speed is five miles an hour—a slow pace beyond which it is dangerous to urge it, lest, as Asiatics say, it might break its heart and die literally on the spot.

CROWD AT CADIZ.

On Stock Show Day Was Largest in History.

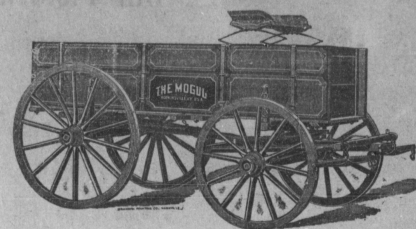

Cadiz, Ky., Oct. 30.—Yesterday was the banner day in the history of Cadiz for a big crowd. It was stock show day, and the crowd was variously estimated at from 6000 to 9,000. The crowd came not only from Trigg county, but from all the adjoining counties. The exhibits of farm products raised in this county were pronounced by all as being the best exhibits of the kind they ever saw. The stock exhibits of saddle and harness horses, cattle, hogs, sheep, etc., were also very fine. J. Frank Ladd, Chairman of the Trigg County Democratic Committee, won the capital prize on the best display of farm products—a fine two-horse wagon.

DEATH LIST GROWS.

Sixteen Killed and Fifty Injured in the Indianapolis Horror.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 11.—It was stated to-night that sixteen persons were killed and over fifty injured, some fatally, in the wreck on the Big Four here to-day. Twelve coaches carrying 754 persons were damaged.

BY FAR THE MOST IMPORTANT.

The Greatest Modern Step in the Manufacture of Wagons

Is the Adoption of the Tire Setting Machine.

This machine was invented by a man by the name of West. It is a ponderous affair, weighing 14,000 pounds and costing $2,000. It not only sets a tire much better than the old way, but does not burn or char the felloe, thus taking all the life and elasticity out of the wood. Every up-to-date factory, in fact every wagon plant that can afford to buy one has it at work, and no farmer can afford to have his tire cut and set the old ruinous way. Come and see it operate.
